CEMETERY COMMITTEE REPORTS TO COUNCIL AT RECENT MEETING

PUMP REPAIRED, OTHER WORK DONE AT BOTH LOCAL CEMETERIES

Following is a report of the proceedings of the Wainwright town council held in the council chamber Tuesday evening, October 18th, at the hour of 8 o'clock.

The members of council present at this meeting were Mayor Forster and councillors Loudfoot, Robinson, McLeod, Patterson and Welch. The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and, on motion, were adopted as read.

The Committee on parks and cemetery presented the following report and, on motion, the report was accepted, viz:

"Since my last report sometime ago, I have had the pump taken out and found the cylinder had a hole rusted through. Also the pipe was so badly rusted it was thought better to put in a new pipe while it was apart, as it could not last in the condition it was in. It was also bailed out and cleaned to the bottom, fresh lime put in and a new cover put on. It is now in good condition and should last for a number of years.

"We have the ground for the carragana hedge widened from 2 to 3 feet and have put on a liberal dressing of manure and had it well worked into the soil. The ground is now in good condition for either seed or plants. The sod has been hauled and put into piles, one at the Catholic cemetery and one at the Protestant cemetery, and as soon as they are decayed anyone fixing up his lot can take this dirt to dress it with, as it is free to everyone."

J. C. McLEOD
Chairman, cemetery committee

The committee on fire, light and utilities presented a draft of an agreement prepared in connection with the permit authorizing Mr. T. J. Telford to connect with and obtain water from the town water system.

On motion, the agreement was accepted by council, the motion being supported by Councillors Robinson, McLeod, Patterson and Welch and opposed by Mayor Forster and Councillor Loudfoot.

On motion, Council was regularly adjourned.

FIFTY FAMILIES PLACED ON FARMS BY GOVT

EDMONTON.—Fifty families have been placed in the process of being placed on farms as a result of the three-way Dominion-provincial-municipal land settlement scheme which has been under organization for the last three months according to an announcement made by S. H. Gandier chairman of the provincial committee.

In all 56 applications for settlement under the scheme had been received from this city and six from other municipalities throughout the province. No more applications will be received.

Three of the successful applicants have been placed in the Peace River area and the rest have been located on land to the west of this city in Edmonton-Evansburg, Edson, Moose Lake and Rocky Rapids.

In all cases the men have been settled on land provided by themselves and in most cases the land is equipped with house and other buildings. In some cases buildings are being erected for the winter.

The agreement calls for a maximum expenditure of $600 on each individual or family. Of this $200 is contributed by each of the three participating administrations. Of the total $100 is withheld for raters for the second year on the land.

WHICH ONE Was the Goose?

As one good goose to another, just what would you think if you saw a couple of Mahatma Gandhis strolling your trail some morning in the wee small hours?

Heath geese were given a thrill like this last Monday morning when two "Arabs" were discovered by the pumpman of the Heath tanks on the C.N. tracks. They were Wainwright hunters nonchalantly dressed in the wife's best guest sheets, sans geese to be sure.

What a dodge, what a dodge! And they still say the human race is improving. Ask any goose what he thinks.....

FORTY HOUR DEVOTIONS CLOSED AT CATHOLIC CHURCH

Rev. Father Gillen, O.M.I., of Vancouver, has been in Wainwright for the past few days as the special speaker at a series of services held for the Forty Hour devotions at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament, which began Sunday and drew to a very successful conclusion Tuesday evening at 7:30.

CATHOLIC CONVENT NEARS COMPLETION

FROM 70 TO 100 STUDENTS WILL LIVE THERE

Work on the new Catholic convent is rapidly nearing completion. The building is an impressive one and will be a real addition to Wainwright's public buildings. From 70 to 100 student boarders can be accommodated in the new building and work is being rushed as many applicants cannot be accommodated in the present quarters. The new building is planned so that two more wings can be added and the exterior finished in brick and stone.

The plasterers started work this week. The highest grade of British Columbia sanded fir finish will be used throughout the building. A large supply of soft water has been secured from a deep drilled well, and modern plumbing has been installed, including fire hose on each floor. Every precaution against fire has been taken, including fire-proof stair wells and fire escapes. A good hot water heating system has been installed.

The Sisters of St. Joseph operate a large number of convents and hospitals throughout Canada. Health of the students living in the new convent will be looked after by a resident sister who is a graduate nurse. Classrooms are provided in the convent for special day or night classes in music, art, bookkeeping, shorthand, typing, languages or any other subject desired for higher education or training as a large staff of highly qualified teaching sisters will reside here.

ALBERTA NOW

PREPARING FOR SHOW

"Over a considerable part of Alberta the quality of grain now being cut is very good and Alberta (Canada) growers should be able to exhibit at the World's Grain Show to advantage because of this high quality. It is well that farmers of this province remember that the Show will be held at Regina next year and take steps now to care properly for grain intended for exhibition."—H. A. Craig, deputy minister of agriculture.

TWO BARNS BURNED IN FIRE AT HEADON FARM NEAR FABYAN

FEED, TOOLS, EQUIPMENT ALSO DESTROYED IN FIRE SUNDAY

Two barns, a quantity of feed, tools and farm equipment were destroyed in a fire Sunday at Dick Headon's farm near Fabyan. The house was saved by the fire-fighters, as fortunately there was not a great deal of wind.

The fire broke out about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Mr. Headon was away at the time. Some of his men discovered the fire and gave the alarm. The cause of the fire has not yet been ascertained.

The loss is covered by insurance, which was carried through the office of Jos. Welch at Wainwright, who is attending to the adjustment.

A certain weekly newspaper in the U.S.A., which is edited by a lady, has this little statement at the head of the local news column. "If you have visitors that you are not ashamed of, let the editor know about it." It's mighty difficult for newspaper people to report things that they do not know about, says another editor in reprinting the above quotation. And again, the editor may know that someone has company without knowing any of the details as to where they are for who they are. Many items are left out for that reason. Editors want to print all the news of the community and help from their readers goes a long way in producing a good newspaper.

FORMER RESIDENT DIED IN U.S. HOME

The following clipping from the Independent Reporter at Skowhegan, Maine, gives the details on the death of Edwin S. Locke, Wainwright resident for 17 years. It was sent to The Star by Mrs. Freda H. Locke, also for 12 years a Wainwright resident, and daughter-in-law of the deceased.

"Edwin Samuel Locke died suddenly October 1st at his home on the Malbon's Mills road in Skowhegan, Maine. Mr. Locke, the son of the late Alanson and Mindwell Locke, was born in Athens where he spent his early life. In June, 1894, he married Mary F. Magoon of Athens. Immediately after his marriage, he went to Boston where he was in business for 28 years. Later he purchased a wheat ranch in Wainwright, Alberta, Canada. In May, 1920, his only child, Everett, died, and in the following year the family came back to Maine. Mr. Locke was one of a family of six children and is survived by one sister, Mrs. Etta Donovan of Somerville, Mass. Mr. Locke leaves in his immediate family his widow and a grandson, Everett Bruce Locke, Rev. George Merriam conducted the funeral service at the home on the afternoon of October 4th, and a committal service at the grave in the family lot in Mt. Rest Cemetery in Athens."

GREAT BRITAIN WILL CANCEL SOVIET TREATY

LONDON.—J. H. Thomas, secretary of state for the Dominions, announced that Great Britain has abrogated its commercial treaty with Soviet Russia.

Under Article 21 of the tariff agreement reached at the recent Ottawa Imperial Conference, he said, renunciation of the temporary commercial agreement with Russia was made necessary.

This agreement was signed on April, 1930. It gave Russia the privileges of most-favored-national treatment and therefore, Thomas explained, it stands in the way of trade prohibitions undertaken by Ottawa.

In notifying the Russian charge d'affaires here that Great Britain is serving six months' notice of abrogation in accordance with the pact, Soviet authorities were informed that Great Britain is still anxious to increase its trade with Russia and is ready to enter discussions with that object in view at the earliest possible time.

Article 21 of the Ottawa agreement, to which Mr. Thomas referred, stipulates that the whole arrangement with the Dominions is based on the express condition that if either party "is satisfied that any preference granted on any particular class of commodities are likely to be frustrated by reason of maintenance of prices for such commodities through state action on the part of a foreign country," that government will exercise the powers it has "to prohibit the entry from such foreign country of such commodities for such time as may be necessary to maintain the preferences" granted at Ottawa.

Canada and Australia were particularly concerned during the negotiations at Ottawa that the British government should adopt effective means to prevent resumption of Russian dumping on the wheat market.

BOY SCOUTS, GIRL GUIDES PRESENTED "THE MANDARIN"

LARGE CAST TOOK PART IN COMIC OPERA HERE LAST TUESDAY

Litling music, a humorous story, good acting and good direction combined to make a real success of "The Mandarin," the two-act comic opera presented last Tuesday night by the Wainwright boy scouts and girl guides at the Elite Theatre. Between 60 and 70 persons were in the cast.

In spite of the difficulty of the music, both the leading characters and the choruses knew their parts perfectly. That fact, which showed hard work and careful rehearsal, added a good deal to the zip and zest of the production which was highly humorous, and thoroughly enjoyed by the large audience.

Edith Steele played the part of the heroine, Princess Yung-Shi, daughter of the Mandarin, and sang her difficult part well as did her two attendants, played by Margaret Steele and Grace Wittmann. Phillip Cumming played the hero, Lt. John Smith of the Royal Navy, and did a fine job of it. His natural acting greatly pleased the audience.

The two lawyers—Chang, public prosecutor, played by Robert Winslow, and Chung, counsel for the defense, played by Gilbert Middlemas—were responsible for the best single comedy scene in the play in their fight in the second act, and played their whole parts very creditably. Sing Song, the press reporter, played by Monroe Armstrong, joined them nobly in some other good comedy scenes. Florence Bradley did some excellent specialty dances.

Charles Lilly who played the Mandarin was the outstanding character, both for his excellent voice and his equally excellent acting. Since Scoutmaster Lilly had to direct the performance as well as play the long part of the Mandarin so he had a heavy evening.

The complete cast: Princess Yung-Shi, Edith Steele; Do-ray-me, attendant to princess, Margaret Steele; So-fah, attendant to princess, Grace Wittmann; Lieut. John Smith, R.N., Phillip Cumming; Chang, public prosecutor, Robert Winslow; Chung, counsel for the defense, Gilbert Middlemas; Sing Song, press reporter, Monroe Armstrong; Court Usher, Gordon Grayston; Colonel Coldsteel, Harold Wiley; Capt. Bluff, William Fish; Executioner, Roland Wilkins; The Mandarin, Charles Lilly; Chinese soldiers: Ed. Walker, Vis Little, R. Fraser, F. Mannors, A. Bradley, G. Thomas, C. Greer, C. Lilly.

Court ladies: Jean Dunsmore, Jeanette Forster, Lois McKay, Eileen Montgomery, Florence Montgomery, Irene Lismore, Georgina Wiley, Betty Cardell, Joyce Renville, Bernice Coffield, Ella Davis and Amabel Davis.

MOUSE STAGES Bold Hold-Up in Chicago

CHICAGO.—A woman standing with upraised hands on a table in a laundry in full view of passersby naturally left them with the impression she needed the help of the police, so someone called a police station.

Two minutes later Sergeants Everett Mullaney and Irving Langraff arrived on the scene and ran him to the laundry with drawn revolvers. Mrs. Bess Kitchner, owner of the laundry, was still on the table.

"Thank goodness," she exclaimed, "you have come."

"Where," said Mullaney, "is the bandit?"

"Bandit?" she exclaimed. "There wasn't any, but I'd be obliged if you will shoot that mouse under the bundle."

The mouse escaped.

JARROW LEGION HAD MEMORIAL SERVICE

NATIVE STONE CAIRN WAS DEDICATED SUNDAY

An impressive service was held at Jarrow Sunday afternoon by the Legionnaires of that area, to unveil a native stone cairn erected in the Jarrow park to the memory of those killed in the World War. In spite of the cold weather crowds of people from far and near witnessed the impressive ceremony.

The procession lined up at the school and paraded to the hall. In the procession were the battle-scarred flag, Guard of Honor (non-permanent militia), Colonel Watson of Vermilion who unveiled the memorial, group of commissioned officers, Bugler Inklin, the two chaplains, Rev. Taylor of Jarrow and Rev. C. N. Bateman of Wainwright, major in charge of a mixed company of Legionnaires from Jarrow, Irma, Battle Heights, Chauvin, Loughede, and Sedgewick, and Girl Guides led by Mrs. Cumley Jr.

The service was held in the hall where the singing was led by two trumpeters and a cornet. Rev. Mr. Taylor, Rev. Mr. Bateman and Colonel Watson were the special speakers. Following this service the procession marched to the park where the cairn was unveiled with full military ceremonial, including the two-minute silence, Last Post, Raising of Flag and Reveille.

MR. THOMAS REPORTS SUNDAY ON CONVENTION

The young people of the United Church had a very interesting meeting Sunday evening. Mr. Thomas, superintendent of the Sunday School had been to a convention at Hamilton, and gave a fine report of the young peoples' department meeting which was held in conjunction with the church council.

Mr. Thomas stated that, according to reports given at the convention, 90,000 young people were members of the United Church Young Peoples' Society, including 38 churches that were represented at the council. He further stated that, while the young people were not asked to appear on the program at this council, they asked for and were gladly granted the privilege of presenting a program which Mr. Thomas said was one of the most inspiring items of the entire council. One of the speakers referred to Holman's painting of Christ and related the story of a father and his little son that were looking at the picture, and the little fellow looked at it in silence for a time and then whispered to his father, "Father, did they let Jesus in?" The speaker then asked that question of the hundreds of young people assembled, and then asked all to stand to their feet who had, and solid rows and groups all over the great building, arose to their feet. Then the question was put, "All who will now let him in, please stand," and again there was response from many.

The Moderator then stood and asked the older people the same questions and was greeted with a good response. Mr. Thomas spoke as though this was the great outstanding feature of the entire convention. Judging from the applause which the young people gave Mr. Thomas when he concluded his splendid address, the picture of that impressive scene must have been vividly re-enacted in the minds of the young people who heard the report.

Mr. Thomas will give another report at the Sunday School convention which will be held in the United Church on Nov. 2nd. It will pay to hear this address, no matter to what church you may belong.

EDITORS AND EQUIPMENT

This is the lowdown. I want to be an editor, the worst kind, no please excuse me, the best kind. In my ministerial work, I was permitted to call upon the local editor, whatever he happened to look like or habits he might have, which were supposed to make him wise or otherwise. Some of them have habits which make them appear otherwise. In spite of the OTHERWISE, I always tried to be nice to all editors and reporters, because I know they could make or break me. Often, in spite of their fierce look I would walk into their den when I was scared stiff and stand hat in hand, trembling, awaiting their pleasure to swing around in their chair, give a half dozen puffs at the old pipe, spit or squirt, in case there was a double formation in operation, look at me and say—'nothin'. That's when a poor preacher needs a friend, for about all he can do is stammer and stutter and sputter and make a real honest-to-goodness fool out of himself, for he well realizes what Daniel faced when he was thrown into the den of lions, only I would rather face a dozen lions than one fierce looking and speechless editor. When the trap does open you never can tell what's coming out first, the tobacco or the blast.

When I decided to enter the newspaper business I was told that the primary asset was to be hard boiled, fierce and roll your own cigarettes. The first duty in the morning was to kick the devil around until he was in a good humble order, throw out the cat and kick the dog and bawl everybody inside and out. OUF. Being a simple-minded minister I took all this instruction seriously. Imagine what a sweet time I am having trying earnestly to do all these things, for added to this aforesaid equipment, I must learn to cuss, more or less, and for the life of me I never can tell when it should be less or more. Now for instance, just this morn', we got a letter with a money order in payment of back subscription, but with a letter accompanying, giving us a good bawling out because we did not stop the paper when it was up. Now, I ask you, which way should I cuss, a whole lot or just a little, and just what should I cuss about, and who at, and what should I say. Should it be nice cuss words or fierce ones. I am getting along fairly well with some of the other afflictions, there are becoming to a (would-be) successful editor, but this letter stumped me. Does any of my brother editors have a setup covering what should be said under these circumstances. I am really so tickled to get the money order that I just can't settle down and think of any real good cuss words to say, and if you have something already printed up, please forward it to me at once, charges prepaid.

Regardless of what I have said, by way of publicly airing out the habits of the profession, for by so doing, I hope to prevent any other poor, deluded parson from falling from grace in allowing himself to enter the newspaper game. I thought I was making fair progress, until the other day I called upon the managing editor of a leading newspaper and all my hopes and ambitions to become a successful editor, like him, have been thrown up. (Remember this statement). I was shown into his office, and to my amazement, he was darn near as good looking as I am. I think if he would let his wife look him over before he starts down to the office, she might improve him until he would be about as distinguished looking as I am, altho I am giving him the benefit of the doubt. Well anyhow, he invited me to be seated and he excused himself for a moment to take some copy to the composing room. (We all do that to impress our caller as to our dignity.) When he crossed I noticed that there were a pile of newspapers in his chair which he had been using for a cushion. When he returned I ventured to remark that, "now I knew why he was such a successful editor because he absorbed news on both ends." To this silly remark he responded with a good laugh, accompanied with a look at me to determine in my mind as to my evident low standard of mentality. Deciding on this apparent weakness, he proceeded to teach me by precept and example just how I should regard his acknowledged superiority, by a few demonstrated engagements which for your edification I will endeavor in order to relate in order of events. The next thing he did was reach for a pipe which was much larger than the average, at this he pulled and talked. I thought a good portion of his conversation came from the pipe. The smoke grew less until all inspiration ceased from it, he then carefully laid it down, pulled open a drawer of his desk, pulled out another, much smaller pipe, indicating I presumed, that our conference would soon end. In this second pipe he cut little chips from a plug of "Star" until the pipe was filled, then more conversation, with added interest and pipe. I was convinced that any commodity which has as its name, "Star", was bound to be full of pep and interest, so if you want to read something full of life and interest reach for a "WAINWRIGHT STAR" and you will be thrilled and filled with new hope and inspiration, only let me warn you, if you act too much out of the ordinary, in love and affection toward your wife, be sure to inform her where you got it, otherwise she might think you are drunk, and call the officers. Getting back to the third point in my discourse, when the STAR tobacco ran out, I beat it, for any one who does not read the Star is bound to get grouchy, sooner or later, and in most cases sooner. After viewing all this performance I made a solemn promise that I would immediately beat it for home, for I felt I had found the fountain of editorial success. The first thing I looked for upon arriving home was a pipe. I found one, but I realized that the idea would never work unless I had two. Careful search revealed another one, both of which belong to my son. I filled one and smoked it. Nothing happened. Now no Star tobacco was to be found. I used some in a can that I found and after a few puffs something DID happen. I lost my supper. Moral: Nothing will act as a substitute for the "Star", and it is really dangerous to experiment.

We have been inviting you to pay up if you owe for the Star. If anybody feels that I have been neglected in my training to use proper cuss words to fire at the proper time and in the proper way, you are cordially invited to jump in the lake until you get cooled off, then come in and see me, and after you look at my funny face, if you don't laugh then you are beyond redemption and you better pay up in advance, so in case anything happens, well we might throw in a few extras with the roses. Lots of people are paying up and a large number have paid as new subscribers. Join the happy family. Enough said.

WE SHOULD THANK GOD

I did not realize until last week just how fortunate we really are in being in this community. On my way to Calgary from Edmonton, on the C.N.R. I noticed on the route, (by the way of Drumheller) that there were hundreds of acres of wheat still in the stock. I also learned later that there were some fields that had not even been cut. This is quite a serious matter, as many of the farmers are requesting special prayer that the Almighty will hold off the continued moisture so that

HOW CHRIST DRAWS

Only One Dish Needed
"Aunt Nan," said Beth, "I'm beginning to feel very sympathetic toward Martha, the sister of Mary. I just had to run over for a few minutes and talk about it."

Aunt Nan smiled understandingly. "Mrs. Potter is going to stay with you girls during the conference, isn't she? And you and Nell don't quite agree about the way to entertain her? Perhaps Nell even refuses to cook and dust quite as much as you think necessary?"

"No-o, not exactly. Nell does what I ask her to do, though she always says it isn't necessary to do so many things and serve so many courses and all that. Honestly, Aunt Nan, sometimes I think that Nell has no sense of duty toward a distinguished guest. And she quotes the story or Mary and Martha, and so do I. I've always had more or less sympathy for Martha, and I can't help wondering why Christ seemed more pleased with Mary. Why do you suppose he said what he did? Really he almost scolded Martha, who was the one who was busy doing things for his comfort."

"I used to feel much the same way," replied Aunt Nan; "so I understand perfectly. For many years Martha was a perplexity to me, but at last I've got her straightened out in my mind. Lovely Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer helped me to do it. When I was a girl at Wellesley she used to come over sometimes and stay to lunch or dinner. At table she would frequently become so much interested in talking to the girls next to her that she would scarcely see when a new course was set in front of her. Then, suddenly realizing that her plate was full, she would push it across the table to her husband. 'You eat it, dear,' she would say with her half-mischief, wholly magnetic smile and then turn back to the girls with whom she had been talking."

"One day it flashed across me how much more a Mary hostess who wanted to be taught would mean to Mrs. Palmer than a Martha hostess who merely placed food in front of her could possibly mean. And if the circumstances were true to her, how much truer it must have been of Christ, who said, 'My meat is to do the will of him that sent me and to finish his work.'"

"Another glimpse of Martha's character came from an article in which the writer spoke of her as having, not a sense of duty, that grand, big, exalting thing, but a sense of duties, the little nimble, plimpy cares of everyday life. And the third glimpse was from Dr. Patterson, our dear old preacher at home. I sat beside him at a dinner the Pattersons were giving for a great preacher from Scotland. Observing the harassed face of his daughter at the end of the table, and the perfunctory attention that she was giving to the guest of honor, Dr. Patterson whispered to me, 'She needs the Master's message, doesn't she, that poor distracted daughter of mine? But one dish is needed, though perhaps the Martha spirit could never grasp that fact.'"

"'Dish?' I said in astonishment. 'Why, Dr. Patterson, I thought the Bible says, 'But one thing is needed,' and that it meant the 'good part,' which Mary had chosen.'"

"He smiled benignly. 'Yes,' he replied, 'that's one interpretation, and a good one of course, but the word used in the original can perfectly well be translated "dish," and don't you think that's a good way to translate it?'"

"One dish, or its equivalent, and peace and quiet and the chance to enjoy every minute of Mrs. Potter's visit!" exclaimed Beth. "Well, Aunt Nan, you can tell Dr. Patterson that the advice sounds good to a poor Martha person like me!"—Youth's Companion.

they can at least cut their grain.

Last summer, we thought we were quite unfortunate in having a dry spell, just as the wheat was ripening, and as a result many of the fields were cut short in yield 10 or so bushels. But the weather conditions were favorable for cutting and threshing and nearly all the wheat in this section is cut and threshed and the quality was excellent as very little of it had a drop of rain on it. After all, then, we people up here should thank God that we have had favorable weather for cutting and threshing, as many of the farmers of the south are standing a good chance to lose everything. What has appeared to be a damaging thing to us, has after all, been a blessing in disguise.

SMALL BOYS AND BIG BANKERS

Condensed from Fortune, (Aug., '32)

Several years ago John Hays Hammond, then aged 71, was knocked out in the first round of a prize fight by Walter Brady, then aged eight. As the venerable Mr. Hammond, special ambassador to the coronation of George V, one time associate of Cecil Rhodes, and world's most famed mining engineer, lay prostrate on the canvas, a gallery of some 700 boys cheered lustily. Thus was dedicated the new gymnasium of the Washington, D.C., Boys' Club.

For some 60 years the Boys' Club movement has steadily progressed toward a simple goal: to give underprivileged boys a chance, a little health, some fun. And unique among philanthropies, it has given almost everyone connected with it, under and overprivileged alike, a grand time. Its 260 clubs, in 35 states, are run by workers half of whom are volunteers, by boards of directors all of whom serve for the love of it. Its sponsors read like a Who's Who of American industry and finance. Among them are Herbert Hoover, John Hays Hammond, Albert H. Wiggin, Charles E. Hughes—and they are but the beginning of a long, long roll. In 1912 the Boys' Club had 55,000 boys enrolled; today, 232,000. The movement has brought into existence throughout the country 95 clubhouses, 224 gymnasiums, 61 swimming pools, 117 summer camps. Last year it gave physical examinations to 47,004 boys, taught 16,789 to swim.

Yet the most significant fact about the Boys' Club movement is that it caused old Mr. Hammond to do battle with young Mr. Brady. For its supporters do not merely write checks. We find, for instance Charles H. Sabin (the Guaranty Trust's Board Chairman) reported as giving a good third of his time to the Boys' Club of New York. We find Gene Tunney actively interested and refereeing Boys' Club boxing matches. We find the late E. H. Harriman taking time from the Union-Pacific to study reports on a 15-bushel potato crop planted by his pet Boys' Club. We find Meredith Howland, a trustee of the Boys' Club of New York and dignified as only a retired lawyer can be, giving a playful push to a boy on the edge of the club swimming pool, and we find the boy pulling Mr. Howland into the pool—derby, stick, top coat, and all.

The Boys' Club of New York is characteristic of the others. It is open to all boys on a non-sectarian basis. Dues are ten cents a year for younger boys, 20 cents for the older ones. Here it should be noted that generally the Boy Scouts and the Y.M.C.A. are middle-class organizations quite beyond the pocketbook of the average street gamine, to whom ten cents a year may be a serious matter.

The boys are organized into small "gangs" of 20 or 30. Led by a young college man, each gang holds weekly meetings with strict parliamentary order, competes against other gangs in athletics. Boys apply for membership in gangs, are admitted in these units and leave the club, on growing up, in a body. The gymnasium and swimming pool are the very heart of the club, but the game rooms and the library are almost always crowded. The senior swimming team competes against Yale, Columbia, and Princeton. The art class has covered most of the club walls with murals. Every night in the auditorium a talking picture is shown. In the summer 2600 of the members spend two weeks apiece at the club's two summer camps. Every boy is thoroughly examined when he enters the club, and is given any medical and dental treatment he may need, without charge if his parents can't afford to pay. Every boy must learn how to swim. The general aim is to make the clubhouse a place "where boys can do the things they like to do" with as little of the "uplift" atmosphere as possible. Especially careful are the leaders to avoid anything like preaching. They feel such tactics are as out of place in a Boys' Club as they would be in any other club.

There are many charities which bulk far larger than the Boys' Club enterprise in scope and financial size. But there are few whose sponsors are so whole-hearted in their personal interest. There are good reasons for this. Unlike most charities, the Boys' Club movement helps those who still have their lives before them. It is, of course, amazingly successful as a weapon against crime: in one city a new Boys' Club cut down juvenile delinquency in its district by 39 per cent. Says Charles H. Sabin: "It costs $400 a year to maintain a man in prison. It costs $15 a year to give a street boy all the benefits of the Boys' Club." But the impulse which chiefly prompts its sponsors to plunge into it so joyously is the irresistible appeal of the boys themselves. And so it is that we find eminent bankers and industrialists upsetting in Boys' Club canoes, getting knocked out in Boys' Club boxing matches, and falling into Boys' Club swimming pools.

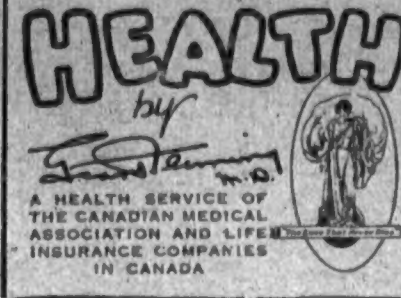

The Golden Book Magazine for September gives us a few quotations that should be a lesson to those who insist upon sitting on the top rail of the pasture fence and watching for the end of the world.

"There is scarcely anything around us but ruin and despair," said William Pitt in 1795.

"I dare not marry, the future is so dark and unsettled," remarked Samuel Wilberforce who inhabited this Earth between the years 1805 and 1873.

"In Industry, Commerce and Agriculture there is no hope," said Disraeli in 1849, while the Duke of Wellington in 1851 thanked God that he was to be spared from seeing the consummation of ruin that was gathering around.

We thank you G. B. M. for digging these statements up. Now we can laugh when John Doe, 1932, insists that "there never was and never can be again such a depression. Things are going to the eternal how-ows, don't you see."

VEGETABLES

It is generally known that vegetables have food value. Vitamins and minerals which are essential to proper growth and health are present in abundance in vegetables.

In order that the full food value of vegetables may be secured, it is necessary that special care be given to their preparation. The outside leaves of lettuce and cabbage, and in and just under the skin of potatoes and other root vegetables, are the parts where the valuable vitamins and minerals are to be found in largest quantities. It is obvious, then, that in the preparation of vegetables the outer leaves and the skins should not be thrown away, because in doing so we waste valuable food materials. Practically, this means that root vegetables should be cooked in their skins, and that the outside leaves of green vegetables should be used.

Vegetables are cooked in order to make them more appetizing—to look and taste better. When this can be accomplished by baking it is most satisfactory, as in baking no food value is lost. Other vegetables can be prepared by steaming, but most green vegetables are best prepared by boiling.

When vegetables are cooked in water, some of the constituents are dissolved and pass out into the water in which the vegetables are being boiled. This means a loss which can and should be prevented. In the first place, cooking should be continued only until the vegetable is tender. Overcooking spoils the appearance and the taste. The amount of water used should be the smallest amount required to give the best result in taste and appearance for each vegetable. In all cases, the water in which vegetables are boiled should be kept and used in gravy, soups and sauces. To pour the water down the sink is simply to throw away a large part, a most important part of the food value of the vegetables.

Compared to past generations, we are fortunate in our ability to secure a variety of vegetables at all seasons. Attention to the points mentioned will make vegetables more pleasing to the taste and in their appearance, and will, at the same time, secure their full food value.

DISCOURAGEMENT

It was announced, so the story goes, That the devil was going to quit, That all his tools would be up for sale—

The whole infernal kit.
Malice and Envy, Hatred and Strife,
Each marked at a bargain price—
Jealousy, Pride and otherwise
All implements of Vice.

A bed and sorry-looking lot
Attractively displayed—
But just apart from all the rest
A great wedge-shaped tool lay,
A harmless-looking simple tool,
Much worn, as one could trace,
But higher priced than all the rest
In that infernal place.

Then someone asked the devil what
This great wedge-shaped tool was.
"Why that's 'DISCOURAGEMENT,'" he said.

It's higher priced because
It's much more useful unto me
Than any of its brothers:
It would prevail where I would fail
With any of the others.
"Few people know it's mine, and so
It works with perfect ease,
For once inside (I'll put you wise)
I do just as I please.
Just let me get the consciousness
Discouraged, downcast, blue—
Eureka! I have found the way
Satanic work to do!"

Suffice to say, the price to pay
The devil for his "pet,"
Was just so high, no one could buy
And so he's got it yet.
And what is more he's using it,
And in these times of stress,
Will no doubt find "DISCOURAGEMENT"

Of all his tools, the best.

Messrs. Cattley and Gregson have dissolved partnership in the livery business and Mr. Cattley will in future be in charge of the buffalo livery, a transfer having been consummated on Monday morning. Both members of the partnership have been in business since the town first started. Mr. Gregson will be in charge of the dray business in future.

As a sequel to the purchase of property made in this town some time ago and their promise that they would return here, Messrs. Geo. Daniel and Hubert Smith both of South Woodside, Ont., and lately of the Red Deer district have moved their families here where they will take up permanent residence. They stated there would probably be at least 50 more families coming in.

After comparing the number of cases the Camrose hospital has with the amount of injuries, sickness, etc., that have come under the care of Dr. Little in this district, it has been decided that a hospital would be a self-supporting proposition in this community.

This week the annual session of the International Dry-Farming association is meeting at Lethbridge.

Do You Remember When - - - -

Secretary H. C. King is the official representative of Wainwright. From the fact that the majority of towns and cities throughout Alberta are sending representatives to Lethbridge it was the opinion of the board of trade that the town could not afford to be unrepresented. Mr. King has taken his 2000 pamphlets which will be distributed to congress visitors. Results should follow, for this district will be in the foreground almost as much as any other in western Canada.

A meeting of importance is being held by the board of trade tonight, where discussion in connection with the formation of a stock company in the building and operating of an opera house will come up for discussion.

According to western advice an ambitious scheme is now underfoot to dredge out the two narrows between Lilloet Lake and lower Lilloet Lake, thus reclaiming about forty or fifty square miles of the best lands traversed by the Grand Trunk line.

TEN YEARS AGO
Oct. 23, 1922

Early Friday morning fire completely destroyed the home of Mr. Harry French who reside southeast of town. Several town ladies immediately made arrangements to supply necessary wearing apparel and Messrs. A. Dreger and A. Sharp started subscription lists to aid Mr. French in re-establishing his farm. Mr. French expressed his heartfelt thanks to everyone who so readily assisted him.

A deal was lately completed whereby Dr. H. Lockwood has sold out his dental practice to Dr. H. L. Courser of Edmonton. While sorry to see Dr. Lockwood leave town, we welcome Dr. Courser to our midst.

The third annual teachers convention of the Wainwright inspectorate was held last Thursday and Friday. H. L. Porter of Viking gave the opening address. Mayor Lally followed him, after which came reports of all the various sections. Following the business meetings a trip was taken through the buffalo park. The teachers returned home Saturday, satisfied that the convention had been well worth while.

Last Wednesday the Women's institute held their annual convention here in Wainwright at the Grace church. Several addresses were given and also some entertaining numbers at the piano. Mrs. Ptolemy proposed a vote of thanks for the hospitality extended to the gathering. And after accepting an invitation to hold the convention at Ribstone next year, the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

After a pleasant trip to the East in charge of the buffalo sent to London, England, geological gardens, Mr. D. Davison has returned home. On his way back Davy unfortunately found his brother at Winnipeg in a very sick condition. He had undergone an operation.

Now that Lou Carl has returned from the hospital in Edmonton the family have moved in the new house recently erected on their farm near Greenshields.

ONE YEAR AGO
Oct. 28, 1931

About the middle of the afternoon last Saturday, when fortunately only a few were on the sidewalk, John Moore, who was driving a Ford car, had the misfortune to run up on the sidewalk with the result that the fender of the car struck one of the big plate glass windows of the Safeway Store. The car was being parked when the transmission broke and there were no means left of stopping the car. No one was hurt and the window is covered by insurance.

A painful accident occurred Wednesday when Mr. John Beaupre stepped on top of a separator and went through the boards. The threshing machine was immediately stopped and Mr. Beaupre was rushed to the hospital. It was found necessary to operate and remove part of the foot. The patient got along nicely and was soon able to leave the institution.

Some excitement was caused on Saturday morning by a fire in the big grass slough west of town which had evidently spread from near the power plant. After an hour's hard work all danger of its getting away was overcome and the engine men returned to the fire hall.

Miss Florence Tory, who was directing Chautauqua at Huguenot last week, motored over to spend the week-end with her parents here.

Upon returning to their home on Second avenue after a two week's visit in the country, Mr. and Mrs. Coderre were shocked to find the inside of their house gutted by fire. The blaze had apparently started near a matchbox in the cupboard and had burned the cupboard walls and ceiling and the curtains at the windows. The flame then went out for lack of draught. Because the house was closed tight the fire was not seen from the outside.

We are informed that Mr. and Mrs. C. Walton with their son Vivian are planning to leave to take up their residence in Vancouver, B.C.

A Visit to The Holy Land

In the plains of Judea a lot of farming was being done. It looked as though it would be a real pleasure to farm these plains. One place I noticed a man plowing, a boy who was with him, about 15 years of age, who was placed in the lead. He had a strap across one shoulder and the other end of the strap was fastened to a camel; the camel was hitched to a donkey and the donkey to his plow. The boy seemed to be doing all the pulling, and I was not able to find out why all the additional "hitching." We saw many things amusing to us as we went along watching the farmers work.

We are now getting up into the rocky section of Judea—yes, the mountains and rocks crowded in on us, and the farther we went the closer the mountains and rocks. In places they were almost perpendicular. Once in awhile a cliff would hang over and the top seemed to reach into the clouds. From here on until we got into Jerusalem, we saw a great many stone walls, about four feet high and three feet thick, we could not understand. In several places back of the wall was filled in with dirt to the top and then fill in on the other side until six or more terraces were made. The question was Where did they get the dirt? Their ways over there are beyond finding out.

We are now in a valley. Have been traveling through a canyon for twenty-five or thirty miles. Our guide was not with us at this time and we were guessing where we were, but decided that we were near the end of our journey because of the natives bringing flowers to the train to sell to us—the same as they had done all the way through the Plains of Judea. The flowers looked and smelled real sweet, but oh, the natives! The houses and the country were looking better, "yes, no doubt we are getting there," for the platform was longer and the train was coming to a standstill, and we hear the brakeman calling, "Jerusalem." When we all were alighted on the platform we found two gates—a man at each, calling "This Way for the Grand Palace." A card was given us before we left the train bearing the name of our hotel and of course we had no trouble. When we presented our tickets at the gate, we were shown our car. This was about one o'clock in the afternoon and we spent the balance of the day driving through the small town of Bethlehem.

Bethlehem is situated four or five miles from Jerusalem. The streets are rough and in places rather steep. I do not know the population—perhaps 600. The most interesting place to me was the Cathedral under which was the crypt where Christ was said to have been born. At the head of the stairway we were each given a lighted candle, then descending the stone steps (about 6 in number) we came to a landing, then turning to the left six or more steps and were on the floor and ten or twelve feet to the left was the crypt, cut out of solid rock, about seven feet long and perhaps five feet wide. As donkeys were used there this was high enough for a manger. It ran back about four feet in a convex shape to the floor. As we stood there almost breathless, gazing at the very place where our Christianity was first cradled—the very center of all true Christianity—and letting our feeble minds run back over nineteen hundred years to the time when this baby Savior was born in this place, and almost from his infancy began His wonderful works for the salvation of all the world. Was it any wonder that we came from that scene with a different feeling within our hearts?

After spending the afternoon there we drove back to Jerusalem. As we were nearing that place the guide pointed out to us what he said was the tomb of Sarah, wife of David. This building, perhaps 20x25 feet stood alone near the side of the road and was in a good state of preservation.

Arriving back to Jerusalem we went to our hotels and that ended our sight-seeing for that day. About twenty of us hired donkeys that evening and took a moonlight donkey ride. They cost $1.00 each. We rode ten or twelve miles and back. The donkeys had a certain gait and no difference how hard you tried they could not be forced beyond that—they would only switch their tails and continue on.

ANGLICAN WOMEN PLAN TO "CARRY ON"

Miss E. Lillingston, Edmonton, diocesan president of the Church of England W.A., returned at the weekend from attending the Dominion W.A. convention in Toronto, and visiting in eastern Canada. En route home she visited the Edgerton W.A., and was the guest of Mrs. Sawyer, the Wainwright W.A. when she was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Bateman, and Jarow W. A.

Speaking of the convention, Miss Lillingston said that the delegates from east and west felt the great need of co-operative effort today in order to keep the work that is being done going under difficult circumstances. There was a good representation from the west, with every diocese in the Dominion represented except Mackenzie River. Although no new work was undertaken, the convention was a very helpful one in consolidating further the women who are active in the organization.—Edmonton Bulletin.

Thus and Such

By So and So

Once upon a time a long time ago there was a man and then once upon a time there was another man, or maybe that was another time, it might even have been another man, or two other men, but men may come and men may go but this won't go on forever.

—Spoofs—
Last week a certain member of the Star staff got to star-gazing or moon-gazing or something and wrote this headline, "Fleecy Flakes Fall, Flummy Flocks Flounder." A day or two later, said staff member discovered a local man repeating, "Fleecy flakes fall, flummy flocks flounder, fleecy flakes fall, flummy flocks flounder—diam it to hell, I clant talk stlight any mlore."

—Ghosts—
Did you see "The Mandarin" the boy scouts and girl guides put on last week? By the way, it was worth seeing. Anyway, if you did see it, didn't you admire the trusting way that Phil Cummings fainted into the arms of the two servants at the end of the first act? How many times do you suppose they dropped him during rehearsals?

—Black Cats—
A week or two ago this column ran a limerick written by one of the conductors, as follows:

There was a young lady in red,
No thoughts, many words in her head,
She pondered and then
An idea went plunk,
"I will write me a column," she said.

And then we received this ode to "Thus and Such", with this notation, "With apologies to the 'Red Head.' Dare you to publish it in your column." Well, we would like to put G.A.B.'s hair, but we always take a dare. (Now who says we can't write the best poetry of the two?) So here it is. No, I don't mean that here is the best poetry, I mean here is what G. A. Bond of Heath wrote:

There was a young lady, hair red,
With nothing at all in her head,
Who pondered, then plunk,
Thought of an idea so plunk,
To write a column to be read.

Then this young lady, hair red,
Writer of a column that was read,
Received this neat note
About the bunk she wrote,
"Enclosed please find a new head."

Then this very young lady, hair red,
Wished to that man to be led,
For before she'd be through
He'd be all black and blue,
And thoroughly wish himself dead.

But G.A.B. can't get away with that. Here's his answer:

There was a young man near Heath,
Who wished on himself much grief,
A lady red-headed
He angered and fretted—
Friends sent him a funeral wreath.

—Pumpkins—
Did you hear about the young man who lipped—and who tried to tell the girl friend that he liked her size? —Jack O'Lanterns—

And did you hear about the lady in Wyoming who ordered two suits of long underwear from a mail order house, size 34, and they sent her size 38. Right afterwards alone, came a cold spell, and the long-underwear-that-fits lady caught a cold. So when she recovered she wanted to file a damage suit against the company, but the district attorney wouldn't do it. Do you suppose he said the suit wasn't his size? Ouch, don't hit me, I won't make a crack like that again.

—Skeletons—
And next Monday is Halloween. What happens now?

—THUS AND SUCH—

On Monday evening the A.Y.P.A. meeting took the form of an impromptu concert. In the absence of the president, John Barr, the chair was taken by Jack Alderman. The program consisted of stories by Rev. Wilson, songs by Mrs. C. N. Bateman, Rev. Wallis and Rev. Bateman, piano selections by Rev. Matthews, Rev. Wallis, C. Lilly, Cliff Bradley and Joe Collet.

HI-SCHOOL HI-LIGHTS

We wish to extend a vote of thanks to those who have made it possible for us to have a skating rink this winter.

—Lost and Found—
FOUND—By Roland Wilkins, a dozen new ways of spelling every word in the English language.

LOST—By Robert Winson, his memory, somewhere between the time Grade X took up the Defeat of the Armada, and the time we had a History test thereon.

—Fire Drill—
In our fire drill we are averaging 35 seconds to clear the school. We notice that in a Chicago school, five stories high, where there are 1500 pupils, the time required to clear the building is 2 minutes, 30 seconds.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR CHARLES WITTMANN

The A.Y.P.A. held a farewell party Wednesday, Oct. 12, for Charles Wittmann, who left a few days later for Viking where he has taken a position in the bank. The party was held at the parish hall and about 50 young people were present.

The first part of the evening was spent in playing cards and later, when everyone had arrived, dancing was begun. Doris Forster, Mr. Lilly, Beatrice McKay, Mrs. H. Brunner and A. Adams took turns at providing music, giving everyone a chance at that indoor sport of two human frames in a struggle for domination.

At a late hour everyone found a place at a heavily laden table and were served the evening's refreshments.

Clifton Bradley read a speech of farewell and John Barr presented the honored guest with a pair of military brushes. The party then adjourned. Everyone wishes Charles success at his new work.

MYRTLE GLASGOW, R. J. PATTERSON MARRIED THURSDAY

CEREMONY HELD AT HOME OF BRIDEGROOM'S BROTHER AT GREENSHIELDS

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Patterson of Greenshields Thursday, Oct. 20, at twelve thirty noon, when Myrtle Eleanor, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Glasgow of Irma, became the wife of Robert John, youngest son of Mr. John Patterson of Greenshields. The Rev. W. J. Huston, pastor of the Wainwright United Church, officiated.

The bride looked charming in a gown of glass blue silk flat crepe trimmed with eggshell. The bride was attended by Miss Frances Daniels, niece of the bridegroom, while Mr. Gerald Glasgow, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a delicious buffet luncheon was served to about forty guests, relatives of the bride couple. Afterwards a number of guests motored to Irma where a sumptuous wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents.

A dance in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Patterson was given that evening at Ketter's hall in Irma, with about 300 guests present. After a midnight lunch served by the bride's parents and showers of rice served by the guests, the happy couple left for Edmonton and other points on their wedding trip.

The couple were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts, and have the best wishes of the community for their married life.

ANNUAL LITTLE HELPERS SERVICE AT ANGLICAN CHURCH VERY SUCCESSFUL

St. Thomas Church was the scene of a very impressive service Saturday afternoon when the annual Little Helpers service was held. The largest attendance for several years was that of Saturday, which testifies to the growth of this useful work. The tiny tots of the congregation brought their Mite boxes which were presented to the Altar. This money is to be given to Missionary work.

Following this service several children were presented for Baptism, Joseph Richard Weir, Lucy Edith Weir, Elsie Ruth Weir, Constance Joanna Weir, Eleanor Mary Weir, and Roger Pearce Western. Little Helpers and their parents were afterwards entertained at tea in the vicarage by Mrs. George Arkwright, the secretary, who was responsible for the success of the service.

Mr. and Mrs. McKay entertained about 20 of their relatives and friends Sunday, Oct. 23, in honor of the third birthday of their eldest daughter. An elaborate turkey supper was served and small Georgina celebrated in style by blowing out her three candles and cutting her pretty "two-story" birthday cake, while her six-months-old sister Iline looked on and cooed approval.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE HAD CAFETERIA SUPPER, SALE

The supper held Saturday, Oct. 22, by the Women's Institute in the I.O.O.F. hall was a unique affair. The supper was served cafeteria style. You took everything that looked good, which was everything, and then tried to eat all of it. That was the unique part. It's funny how much bigger a person's eyes are than his stomach.

If you really didn't want to buy a supper though there were aprons, children's dresses, dishcloths and everything else that you can always use more of. The whole affair was a success and if we're all good maybe next year they will have another cafeteria supper for us.

GRIZZLY BEAR MUN. DISTRICT COUNCIL MET OCTOBER 15th

COUNCIL SAT AS COURT OF APPEALS; REEVE SHANE TO ATTEND MEETING

A meeting of the council of the municipal district of Grizzly Bear, No. 452 was held in the office at Wildmere on Saturday, Oct. 15, Reeve Shane taking the chair at 10.30 a.m. with all the councillors present.

Minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted. Bank statements for month and cash book summaries were submitted and approved.

A ratepayer from Vanesti district waited on the council and discussed with the councillors tax arrears, penalties and modes of tax collecting. Letters were submitted from the department, dealing with request that more information be supplied in regard to the proposed larger municipal areas, promising that such would be found in the convention handbook to be issued shortly.

Correspondence with the C.P.R. company dealt with payment of lands taken for road deviations, with notifications as to cancellation of contracts, and with lands in arrears of taxes. Claim by a ratepayer in Div. 5 as short on road work and referring to matters a number of years back was tabled.

Between 1 and 2 o'clock council sat as a court of appeal on assessments, some nine parcels held over from last council meeting being dealt with. Agreed that Reeve Shane act as delegate to the municipal convention to be held at Calgary, Nov. 16-18, and to allow $35 as expenses. Mr. Nash is to act should the Reeve be unable to attend.

Agreed to continue grocery supplies to a family in Div. 3 and to make enquiry at dominion authorities, with a view to the family's being returned to old country. Accounts from Wainwright doctors for $415 were tabled for enquiry.

Memo was submitted from Mr. J.W.G. Morrison, dealing with a recent decision of the courts as to crop lease payments, the substance of the decision being that the mortgagee's share of the crop is exempt from seizure for taxes due by the tenant or owner. Agreed on motion by Reeve Shane that resolutions be forwarded to the convention asking for reduction of penalties charged on unpaid taxes, and for government assistance in providing grain cleaning outfits for use of farmers.

Reports as to a number of judicial seizures were submitted, and council agreed for the present not to push prior claim for taxes, unless these were in arrears.

Road work sheets were submitted and passed: from Div. 1, $12; Div. 3, $138; Div. 4, $314.50, $216.30; Div. 5, $108; Div. 6, $139, $46.

Accounts approximating $220 were also passed and ordered paid.

By Mrs. Howard Gilbert

The United Church service is held every two weeks at Rosedale Hall. Rev. W. Bainbridge, of Edgerton, pastor. Service at 2.30 p.m., Sunday School at 3.30 p.m.

The October meeting of the Sunnyvale U.F.W.A. was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. G. Moore. There was a good attendance with the President, Mrs. Warnock, in the chair. Considerable business was cared for, including the arrangements for a play to be given during November. At the close of the meeting the hostess served a delicious luncheon and a social time was spent. The ladies will meet again in November at the home of Mrs. S. Griebel.

The Taylor brothers arrived home Thursday night from their motor trip to Manitoba. They experienced considerable winter on their return journey, plowing snow, in some places two feet deep, from Portage La Prairie, Man., to Broadview, Sask. They were held up at one point for about three hours until a blizzard thinned a little. And cold, brrrr! Alberta's not so bad after all.

Mr. John Granigan is busy at present building a fine barn and Mr. Earnest Burnett has started operations for the building of a house on his new acquired farm property. Lumber business looking up!

Mr. Percy Smale motored to Edmonton Wednesday last.

The Rosedale Hall is at present being treated to a new coat of paint.

Writer Reports Russian Farmers Satisfied With Present Conditions

(Continued from last week) (Ed. Note.—This is the last half of an article on Russia appearing in "The Financial Post," and of particular interest in Alberta because of its discussion of the Russian farmer. The first half of the article was printed last week.)

On this particular farm there were several acres of greenhouses with grapes, tomatoes, fruits, flowers, and everything else one would expect to find in a modern layout of greenhouses. Farmers and their families lived in the nearby village. Housing space is not as scarce in the rural districts as it is in the cities. Such small huts or cottages as I saw nearly all had little plots of ground in which there was a profusion of flowers.

The way the co-operative or collective farm is run is as follows: As the crops are gathered a percentage, varying from 15 per cent to 20 per cent according to the total yield is divided pro rata among those working the farm for their own consumption.

The village churches, and priests, still function just the same, as the churches function in the towns and cities. But the priests have no civil rights. They are dependent solely or in kind. Apropos of this I might say that earnest members of the Society of Friends (Quakers) and Baptists are securing a great many adherents. No Communist will avow himself as a Christian or as a member of any other religious faith. But the Communists (or party workers) are in a minority. They run things in the sense that they hold down most of the government jobs. The nearest parallel I can think of is to compare the political strength and influence of the Communists with that of the political strength and influence of the Orange Order in Toronto. I suppose that Orangemen are in a great minority in Toronto but to hold down a municipal job it is desirable, even if not absolutely necessary, to be an Orangeman.

No Land Wasted

One thing that impressed me was the intensive cultivation of the land. It is sown right up to the edge of the railroad tracks. Tens of millions of acres which were previously allowed to fallow have been put under cultivation by State Farms.

The State Farm differs from the Collective Farm. The Collective may have been formed by the collectivization of a lot of little farms. The big State Farms are gigantic enterprises organized to put under cultivation great tracts of virgin soil. The workers on the State Farms are paid wages just the same as industrial workers. Their wages do not depend upon the value of the crop.

The communal idea is not new to the Russian, or at least that is my understanding of the matter. Prior to the Revolution I was told that many villagers operated their farms on a community basis. The important thing is that there has been a monumental increase in the amount of grain, dairy produce and vegetable truck raised under the Collective and State Farm systems. There is, this year a shortage of grain and other produce in many districts due to drought. In the Ukraine, for instance, I was told by a professor of agriculture whom I met while traveling to Kiev, that the 1932 wheat crop might be nearly two hundred million bushels short of normal.

Size of Collective Farms
The following figures are instructive and have been taken from the proceedings of the Amsterdam Congress.

In 1927, prior to collectivization, there were 24,800,000 farms averaging 4.4 hectares. In 1931, 226 collective farms had sown 88,900,000 hectares. Collectives now farm an area as large as half that of the cultivated area of the United States. From 1927 to 1931 the cultivated area in the Soviet Union increased by 28,000,000 hectares. In the same period the cultivated area of the world declined by about 25,000,000 hectares. In the 25 years from 1900 to 1925 the sown area of the United States increased by 22,000,000 hectares whereas in four years—from 1927 to 1931—the sown area of the U.S.S.R. increased by 23,000,000 hectares. Growth is between five and six times faster in Russia than it is in United States.

Rapid progress has been made in cotton growing. In 1927 Russia reached its pre-war level of 751,000 hectares. In 1931 2,357,000 hectares were planted. No wonder the Southern cotton grower is worrying and no wonder the Liverpool broker is playing off Russia against the Southern States. They haven't forgotten how the Southern planters held them up for famine prices in 1916-1918. In 1927 the U.S.S.R. reached pre-war production of sugar beets—665,000 hectares. In 1931 they planted 3,370,000 hectares. Russians chew sunflower seeds in the same way that people in North America chew peanuts and gum. In 1931 the pre-war production of sunflower seeds was Heh, heh, but $4000 you can't find my cotyom this week. Ah heck, who told you it was here. Can't I have a little privacy? And now that you have found it, your next job is to collect that $4000. If I had, but 20 cents you would have had just as much trouble collecting.

However it's a lot of fun to speak in the thousands. It's the nearest any newspaper man ever got to that amount. And what's more if you ride me too much, I'll say a million the next time, and then just think how much you'll always have coming to you. And now that you're all millionaires, how about loaning me, the guy that made you that way, about $1000 so that I can forget to come to work one day. Or on second thought make it $3000 so that I can lay off three days.

Not that my time is worth a thousand a day, but maybe some day when I wake up I'll feel like a million, and then I'll be in the same class with you guys. Now we're all well fixed financially for the rest of our lives, providing we die before the sun sets. Let's carry on.

And since I made you all millionaires in the first two paragraphs, and myself in the third, I think that I have done a good day's work, and should call it a day's work, but the boss, sh—my wife says that I have to fill a cotyom, so on I go.

And G. Bond crashes thru with a contrib to yo olde idiot of these cotyoms, here it is:
"There was a young man named Zook Once of work he forsook, And to 'Ramblin's' he took, With his rod and his hook And his 'Catchers' sure fill a big book."

Thanks, G. old pal, old pill, old pal, and I hope that some day when it's nice and cold you fall into a deep pool of water and it freezes over. So there.

And I see in the dolly pepper the other day, that a janitor fell into a barrel of ink, Indelible Ink, and even his best friends don't know him. Bet he's feeling kinda BLUE these days.

The world's worst tragedy happened in dear old Missouri the other day. It seems that rich little feller wasn't quite rich enough to go to Africa, but rich enough to buy a couple of lions and stage a real lion hunt at home. He bought two nice ferocious lions and had everything set to loose the lions for the big hunt, when the owner of the law steps in and holds the big game hunt a little previous and shoots both the lions and the would-be big game hunters plans all

Rapid strides are being made in the growth of soy beans. We in Canada, don't know what the soy bean is, but the Japanese and the Chinese couldn't live without it. It is ooth meat and drink to them, something like the English working man's beer.

In 1924 there were only 2,500 tractors in use with a total capacity of 35,000 h.p. In 1931 there were 110,000 tractors with a corresponding increase in h.p. Production of alkali fertilizer has increased ten times within the past few years.

Enroute for Paris, after a 16-months visit to her son who is farming in Alberta, an unusual and colorful passenger traveling the other day over Canadian National lines, was the Princess Galitzini, head of a noble Russian family of the old pre-revolution days. Before the Russian revolution the Galitzini estates were among the largest in the empire of the Czars, comprising properties in the Crimea, Poland and various parts of Russia. All these were taken from them by the Soviet revolutionaries, and the family, more fortunate than many, were able at any rate to escape with their lives. One son emigrated to Canada, where he now farms at Edson, Alberta.

A communication, breathing the heartfelt sorrow of a humble soul writhing over an incident many years ago, was received the other day at the Winnipeg headquarters of the Canadian National Railways, from a man at Lake City, Fla. The conscience sufferer confesses that "while engaged in manual labor on the Canadian Northern construction a thing took place which is a thing of condemnation to me now. Once or twice when returning from work I carried off a shovelful. It is a long while past but I am some day to stand and give an account of just and unjust deeds. I am now confessing my error and want to make restitution." A reply to this debtor, hitherto unsuspected was made by the Canadian National.

The railways of Canada broke a record of 43 years' standing in 1931 for the safe carriage of passengers. According to the first aid and safety first department of the Canadian National Railways, only three passengers were killed on Canadian railways in 1931 out of 26,550,556 carried. There were also an encouraging decrease in the number of grade crossing fatalities. In 1931, persons killed at highway crossings numbered 84. This is the lowest figure since 1925. The number injured in crossing accidents was 321, which is fewer than in any year since 1924. In non-train accidents, that is those occurring at stations, in shops, on the tracks, handling rails, ties, etc., low records were also achieved. In such accidents the number of people killed was 14 as against 19 in 1931, the previous low. Injuries, under these circumstances were 4,952. Many of these were slight, and this figure is the lowest since 1921.

About midnight the president of the Sunnyvale U.F.W.A., Mrs. Warnock, expressed the regrets of the many friends of the Lanes at the loss of their company. Mr. and Mrs. Lane were then presented with half a dozen forks as a keepsake and token of their friends.
